A New Beginning with a Proud Past

Mayor Onderko's Corner Richard M. Onderko, Mayor Borough of Manville

With summer ending and Labor Day rapidly approaching, it is a good time to reflect and also look ahead as we close out 2017. But first please remember as school starts many kids will be walking in our community to and from school. Please slow down and drive 25 MPH in our neighborhoods. The speed limits are not 30 or 35 MPH for a reason. Thanks for your attention and cooperation for the safety of our school children.

As fall approaches and we head into another campaign season with an important Governor's election and other local seats, I hope the issues will be the topics of the day along with the solutions candidates will present to help fix our problems. I find it to be very troubling times in our country as my fellow Americans seemed to be enemies of one another and that concerns me greatly. We seem to be a nation divided across political party lines when we really are all proud Americans first.

We live in a great country with cherished freedoms that exist nowhere else in our world. Stop and think for a minute how lucky we are to live here in freedom. That freedom would not be possible without the Constitution of the United States and those who bravely wear our country's uniform sworn to protect and defend it. President Reagan once said "If we lose freedom here, there is no place to escape to. This is the last stand on Earth".

I grew up in a family where my father proudly served his country during the Vietnam War and is a retired US Army veteran. Our veterans have a special place in my heart. I have seen first-hand the sacrifices our military families and soldiers make all in the spirit of protecting our freedom. It must be fought for, protected, and handed on for the next generation to do the same.

We have great military history right here in Manville and our surrounding area with our veterans who fought to keep us free. We have a Revolutionary War general, Frederick Frelinghuysen, buried by Kupper Airport, a WWII congressional medal of honor winner, Marine gunnery sergeant John Basilone from nearby Raritan, and a long-time resident of Manville, Army sergeant George Banovich who was a Pearl Harbor survivor and highly decorated war hero. VFW Post 2290 had the largest membership in our state at one point and their facility is a cornerstone of our community.

There is no doubt veterans deserve the respect they have earned with their service. They need our help today. A resident reached out to me earlier this year and asked if I would contact the Wreath's Across America organization from Maine. They honor our veterans by placing wreaths on every grave in Arlington National Cemetery each year in mid-December. Their ultimate goal is to have a wreath placed on every veteran's grave throughout our nation.

Wreath's Across America's noble mission is to always remember our veterans, honor them and teach our youth of their

Murals on Main gets the Green Light

Next spring things are going to get a bit more artistic on Main Street.

The Manville Arts Council will be installing their first mural project in the Spring of 2018. As you read this, design concepts are in the works, mural space is being reserved and applications for artist participation are being written. Thanks to the participation of local real estate owners, the Arts Council will get a chance to do what they love best, showcase the talent of artists within our community. Artists based in New Jersey will be given the chance to design a mural and have it realized in our town. Special consideration will go to Manville Residents who wish to submit a design. More details on how to enter your design will be available this October at www.manvillearts.org.

Our Local Business Spot Light

This month, the Borough of Manville is pleased to "spotlight" Bon Palay, a newly opened restaurant featuring country Thai cooking and other Asian comfort food. Located at 404 South Main Street, Bon Palay offers westernized home-style, traditional Thai cooking.

Owners, Mike & Palay, would like to tell their passion for opening this establishment on Manville's Main Street. "We feel there are as many definitions of real Thai food as there are cooks making it. Yet still, there are so many flavors and dishes not thoroughly represented. We hesitate to call Bon Palay a Thai establishment as it doesn't fit the mold and is not what foodies have come to expect," shared owners Mike & Palay.

Reminiscent of so many culinary nooks found throughout Thailand the open-kitchen dining room offers full immersion in the sound, scent, and style of Thai cooking from the tap tap tap of a crock to the sizzle in a wok.

While offering many Thai items that Americans are accustomed to, their focus is also on the everyday food that is, although less auspicious, equally delicious.

This food is not necessarily spicy and does not have to be unless you want it to be. Bon Palay brings the heat to their dishes, but only to accentuate, not to overwhelm.

They offer a number of western items on the menu as well. Good food is good food and they believe it needs no label. A number of passed down Irish, Polish and Italian family recipes round out the offerings nicely and present options for a groups with diverse tastes. Stop in and give Bon Palay a try!

Again, Bon Palay is located at 404 South Main Street in Manville and is open daily from 11 am to 10 pm. They can be reached at (908) 246-4489, on Facebook or visit their website at www.bonpalay.com to view their full menu.

The End of the Weston Mill Dam on the Millstone River

On right - Jim Waltman from the Stony Brook-Millstone Watershed Association with Mayor Onderko at the podium.

The Department of Environmental Protection – in cooperation with the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, National Oceanic and Atmospheric Administration, Stony Brook-Millstone Watershed Association and other partners – is removing the obsolete Weston Mill Dam on the Millstone River between Manville and Franklin Township.

The removal of the Weston Mill Dam, also known as the Weston Causeway Dam, is the latest in a series of dam-removal projects undertaken by state, federal, nonprofit, and private partners to make waterways in the Raritan River Basin free-flowing again.

The project opens a 4.5-mile stretch of the Millstone River upstream of the dam to species such as American shad and river herring that spend much of their lives in the ocean and estuaries but need to return to freshwater rivers and streams to spawn. American eel, which spawn in the ocean but spend much of their lives in rivers and streams, will also benefit.

Funding for the project was secured by the DEP's Office of Natural Resource Restoration, the National Oceanic and Atmospheric Administration, and the U.S. Department of the Interior through a Natural Resource Damage Assessment settlement agreement. It is occurring in an area purchased by the DEP's Green Acres Program as an addition to the Delaware & Raritan Canal State Park as well as for the purposes of removing the dam.

Structures such as the Weston Mill Dam, which is 5.5-feet high, are known as low-head dams. These small dams were built many decades and even centuries ago to power mills, generate electricity and create lake-like sections of impounded water. However, they have long prevented migratory fish from accessing important spawning habitats. As early as the late 1700s, it was reported that construction of dams and overfishing were causing the shad population in the Millstone River to decline rapidly.

Low-head dams create stagnant stretches of rivers that can be low in dissolved oxygen that aquatic life needs, while exacerbating excessive algae growth that can diminish recreational and scenic enjoyment. In addition, kayakers and canoers who are not aware of the dams can find themselves trapped in a vortex of roiling water should they accidentally tumble over them. The original dam at Weston Mill was built around 1844. The current concrete dam at the same location was built in the mid-1930s.

After the 112-foot-wide dam is removed, the river channel will be restored. Studies are underway to assess benefits to fish and improvements in the river's overall ecological health.

The Weston Dam project is being conducted by Wyeth Holdings LLC under the terms of a Natural Resource Damage settlement agreement with the DEP, the U.S. Department of Interior's Fish and Wildlife Service, and the U.S. Department of Commerce's National Oceanic and Atmospheric Administration.

This agreement calls for Wyeth to implement the project to compensate the public for natural resource injury resulting from past pollution to the Raritan River from the American Cyanamid Superfund site in Bridgewater Township. Wyeth inherited responsibility for the American Cyanamid site through corporate succession.

Other partners in the Raritan Basin effort include American Rivers, Conservation Resources Inc., the Geraldine R. Dodge Foundation, the Horizon Foundation and the Raritan River Fish Passage Initiative.

Manville Municipal Alliance Joined Forces with the Hillsborough Manville Elks Drug Awareness Committee for Family Fun Night

On Saturday, August 12th the Manville Municipal Alliance participated in Free Family Fun Night at Manville's Memorial Pool. The well attended event was a great success!!

Hosted by the Hillsborough-Manville Elks Drug Awareness Committee in collaboration with the Manville Arts Council, Manville Recreation Department, Manville Reformed Church, Hillsborough MAC, Middle Earth, and Family & Community Health Sciences Rutgers Cooperative Extension of Somerset County, the event sought to bridge the gap between community members and available resources. In addition, raising awareness to the substance abuse epidemic and providing prevention education to aid in combatting this crisis was also an integral aspect of the evening.

The Manville Municipal Alliance is funded through a grant from Governors Council Against Drug Abuse (GCADA) and its own fundraising efforts. Many of the programs offered by the Manville Municipal Alliance are free or at a very low cost to the community. Other family friendly events or activities that the Manville Municipal Alliance has recently participated in include the Manville Community Day, High-ding in Plain Site, and the Sticker Shock Campaign just to name a few.

Please visit the Manville Municipal Alliance webpage for upcoming events or additional information, www.manvilleni.org/456/Municipal-Alliance sacrifices. The organization has agreed to have a convoy stop right here in Manville on the morning of Wednesday, December 13th to honor our local veterans who have passed away as they travel on to Arlington. This will be a very special event and day for Manville. It will bring and keep a spotlight on all our veterans so we always remember their sacrifices.

In closing, our nation may be divided along political party lines today. This year's theme of the convoy is so fitting to help unite us. The slogan of "I am an American. Yes I am!" is perfect. I'm convinced the convoy stop will bring out the best of our patriotism and love of country.

Let's also remember what makes us great as a nation, the right to speak without censorship or restraint by our government. Freedom of speech is protected by the First Amendment to the US Constitution. Thomas Jefferson once said "every difference of opinion is not a difference of principle". As Americans we all want what's best for our future and we need to work together to solve our problems and make the progress we all deserve. Doing this in harmony we will bring a great honor to all our veterans who protected the freedoms of American life we enjoy each and every day.

God bless all our veterans. I for one am forever grateful. I am an American! Yes I am!

Until next month,
Mayor Richard M. Onderko

Manville Borough Announces Annual Re-Assessment Program

Due to the rapidly changing real estate market of the past several years, The Borough of Manville has decided to enter into an annual re-assessment program.

This program will consider the current real estate market and potentially update assessment values each year instead of a costly full re-valuation program every 10 to 15 years. This program has been successfully implemented in several other Somerset County municipalities and has shown greater accuracy of assessments which ensures a fair and equitable distribution of taxation across the town.

This program requires ongoing inspections of all properties every five years to confirm the details of the assessment records. Therefore, commencing in the summer of 2017, inspectors from the Borough's Tax Assessor's office will be inspecting 20% of the properties in town each year.

Inspections will be done throughout neighborhoods and the initial inspection will be unannounced. If no one is home, a notice will be left to contact the Assessor's office to arrange a more convenient time. For the protection of residents, inspectors will have identification and will not enter a house unless an adult is present.

The inspection process will only take a few minutes and is only intended to confirm the details of the property with the least amount of intrusion on residents. Inspectors will measure the exterior of the buildings and gather information relating to living space, kitchens, bathrooms, basements and overall condition. This information will be used to help determine the market value of the property.

All property owners will be notified of their assessment each year by the green assessment notification post cards which are sent out every February.

If you have any questions, please feel free to contact the Assessor's office at: (908) 725 - 9478

Quilts of Valor

Calling all quilters!

SCLSNJ's Manville Library branch is organizing a community effort to create a comforting quilt to be donated to a local veteran. Volunteers are needed to contribute their time sewing a block, or several blocks, to be included in the quilt. We'll provide the precut fabric and instructions; you'll assemble and sew the quilt block together, and return the finished block to the library by September 15. Our goal is to have the completed quilt on display at the Library when the Wreaths Across America Truck Convoy passes through Manville on December 13. Stop by the Library during the first week of September to pick up the fabric and instructions.

NEW AFTERSCHOOL ACTIVITIES AT THE LIBRARY

Recent studies have shown the value of recreational after-school programs for youth. Children develop new skills while finding opportunities for friendship; parents find safe and convenient ways to supplement academic learning. SCLSNJ's Manville Library branch is fortunate to work with two local organizations to host several new options for structured after-school activities.

Starting in September, the Manville Arts Council will launch Act UP and Dance It UP. For a nominal fee, children may benefit from performing arts programs designed to increase confidence and expand minds. The Manville Arts Council has recruited talented professionals from Fresh Theater Arts who are skilled in creating unique, exciting and fun ways to spend the afternoon. Parents may find more information about these program at www.manvillearts.org.

Manville Recreation is looking at after-school enrichment through another lens – that of the visual arts. With continued emphasis on common core skills like reading and math, art is often overlooked as a path to academic achievement. Yet artistic expression encourages children to take risks, develop a sense of innovation, and hone their visual-spatial skills. Manville Rec's low-cost Art Connection program offers all of this, and more. To find out more about the program, contact the Manville Library branch or go online at www.manvillenj.org.

These three new programs, as well as the Library's established LEGO club, promote critical thinking while tapping into student passions. Look for other opportunities in the Manville branch September/October brochure or stop by the Library to see all we have to offer.
